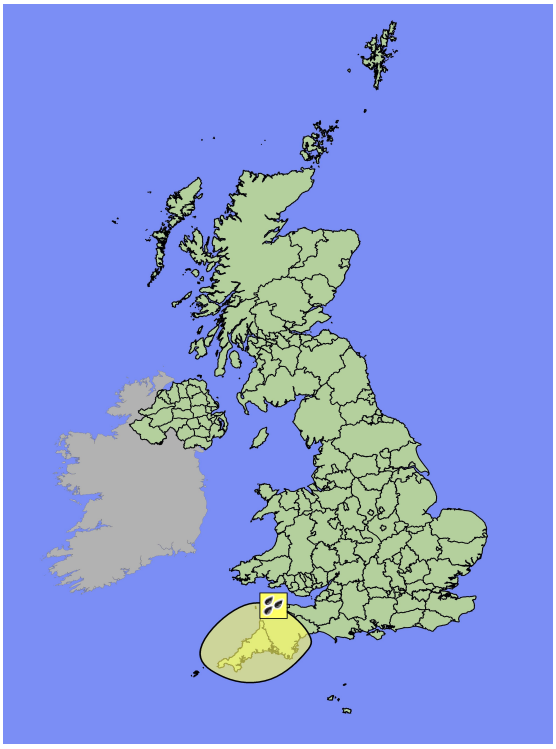
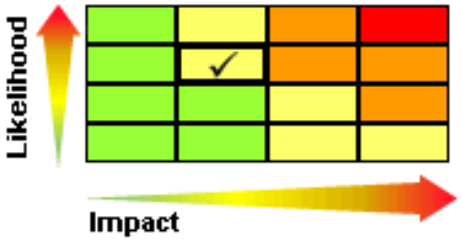
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A small area of low pressure is expected to move eastwards into the Bristol Channel late this evening. This is likely to bring some heavy and persistent rain amounting to 15-25 mm in places. With the ground being almost saturated, some localised surface water flooding is possible.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 20:00 on Thu, 04th Oct 2012 until 23:55 on Thu, 04th Oct 2012

Heavy rain is likely to move eastwards across southwest England this evening. With the ground already being almost saturated, the public should be aware of the risk of localised surface water flooding.
